INSPECTION INVITED.

SUIT ON A NOTE

Against the Executors of Charlton Alexander.

A petition has been filed in the office of the Clerk of the Fayette Circuit Court, which, on account of the prominence of the parties involved, both socially and financially and the number of prominent attorneys who have been retained, will excite a great deal of interest in Lexington and Paris.

The suit is to recover payment on a note of $15,000 given by Charlton Alexander, deceased, to his son, George Alexander, and discounted by him to the Citizens' National Bank of Cincinnati, which in turn disposed of it to the Fifth National Bank, of Cincinnati.
In the petition the plaintiff, the Fifth National Bank, of Cincinnati, states that C. Alexander died in Bourbon county, in August, 1902, testate; that his last will and testament was admitted to probate in the Bourbon Circuit Court, and that his widow, Belle
H. Alexander, C. S. Brent, of Lexington and James E. Clay, of Bourbon county, qualified as his executors.

On or about the 3d day of April,
1903, C. Alexander delivered to George Alexander, his son, president of the banking firm of Geo. Alexander & Co., of Paris, a note for the value of fifteen thousand dollars, payable eight months from date, for value received bearing interest from maturity at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum. Geo.
Alexander delivered the note shortly after to the banking firm of Geo. Alexander & Co., and this firm on the 4th day of April, 1903, discounted and sold the note to the Citizens' National Bank, of Cincinnati, for the sum of $14,392.50.
This bank, in turn, sold the note to the Fifth National Bank, of Cincinnati, for the sum of $15,042.83, and the latter bank is now the owner and holder thereof.

The plaintiff states that payment of said note has been demanded, but no part has been paid, though long since due, wherefore, the plaintiff prays judgment against the defendants, the executors of the estate for $15,000, with interest from December 3rd, 1902, until paid, and for costs and all proper relief.
The petition is signed by Boyd & Boyce as attorneys for plaintiff.

The suit is said to involve a family controversy over Mr. Alexander's estate.

Following is a copy of the note in question:

PARIS, April 3, 1903.
Eight months after date I promise to pay to the order of Geo. Alexander Fifteen Thousand Dollars, with interest, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum from maturity until paid, for value received, negotiable and payable to Geo.
Alexander & Co.'s Bank, Paris, Ky.

C. ALEXANDER.

(Endorsed on back):

Geo. ALEXANDER.

Geo. ALEXANDER & Co.

For value received this note is hereby assigned to the Fifth National Bank, of Cincinnati, without recourse, on the Citizens' National Bank, of Cincinnati.

C. P. TUCKER, Cashier.

On April 17, 1903, a summons was served on Mr. C. S. Brent, of Lexington, by James C. Rogers, Clerk of the Fayette Circuit Court, and on May 2,
1903 through his attorneys, Allen &
Duncan, Mr. Brent filed an answer praying the Court to require the plaintiff to make his petition more specific.

The following attorneys will appear for the plaintiff: Boyd & Boyce, of Covington; McMillan & Talbot, of Paris; Breckinridge and Shelby and C.
J. Bronston. For the defense: Myers
& Howard, of Covington, and Allen &
Duncan, of Lexington.

Besides the above brilliant array of legal talent, several attorneys representing the individual interests of the three trustees, will be connected with the case—Lexington Leader.

SUITS 1-5 OFF.

We bought more and a finer line of Suits this Spring than ever before, and have experienced the most unpropitious weather to sell them that we have ever had. Want to sell them while you can still have a good long time to use them. One-fifth off our regular price means much, as our prices are always moderate to begin with. Many nobby styles and all finely tailored. Goods marked in plain figures.

Walking Skirts $3.98

Exactly eighteen (18) Skirts in this lot. Colors—Black, Grey, Blue mixed and stripes, ranging in price from $5 to $9.50. I you only use them for bad weather—or around home for the garden—they would be very cheap $3.98 for choice.

Silk Petticoats

We have about one dozen handsome Silk Petticoats—in fact, too fine—which we will close out at reduced prices. They are truly bargains if you want something fine in Colored Silk Underskirts. 2 $25 Brocade Lavender, lace trimmed, at $18; 1 $15 Carise Braded, at $9; 1 $20 Green, at $15; 1 $18 Rose Pink, at $13.50; 1
$13.50 Yellow, at $9.50, etc

Wash Dress Skirts

Our new line received Saturday, and it is extravagance to make them when you can buy them at such prices as we sell them to you. Polka Dot Ducks, black and navy ground—$1, $1.25, $1.50. White Piques at $1.75 to $3. Linens at $1.50 to $2.50.

Colored Shirt Waists

To close out at prices that will surely do it. Only colored ones at these prices: 50c Waists, 35c; 85c Waists, 59c; $1.50 Waists, 79c;
$1.75 Waists, $1.25.

CURING A CRIPPLE.

BY EDWARD B. CLARK.

"Here you are, Miss Clevenger; this is just in your line," said the city editor of the Daily Blaze, as he handed a clipping to a young woman reporter. "You certainly can get something spicy out of that. Answer it, follow it up and get a good yarn. The stronger the better, and if there is a bit of lemon color in it won't hurt anything."

Norah Clevenger took the clipping from the city editor's hand. It was an advertisement cut from a contemporary daily. This is what she read:

Wanted—a wife, more than 32 years old; must be loving disposition; cripple preferred. Address Lock Box 07, Hoosiersville, Indiana.

"I think that's a bona fide 'ad,' Miss Clevenger," said the city editor, "and the fellow who stuck it in wants a cripple, and that's queer in itself. Write to him, meet him and get your yarn. It ought to be a good one."

Norah sat down and wrote a letter, addressing it to Lock Box 07, Hoosiersville, Ind. She lied in it, nothing less, but then that, too, was a part of the business she had learned at the Blaze office. She said that she was a cripple; that her right arm was paralyzed. She told the truth, however, about her appearance, and her age—she was 29—and then asked that the lock box owner address her at the general delivery window of the post office, saying that she did not wish to give her proper address until she knew positively that her correspondent was a good man and one who would not trifle with a woman. She signed the letter Mary Anderson.

Norah Clevenger waited three days before an answer came to her communication. When one did come she found that it was written in a good hand and in good English. It was simple and straightforward. The writer said that he was a widower, 34 years old, with one child; had a large stock and fruit farm, which yielded a good income, and he was laying up money. The letter gave no reason why the writer wished to marry a cripple.

Norah Clevenger wrote again. She led the writer on a little in the next letter, and with an audacity characteristic of the girl, inclosed her photograph. On the third day she had an answer, which she showed the city editor, saying: "I'm in for it, Mr. Rankin. His name is Moore, and he reaches the city to-night, and I'm to meet him at the Consolidated depot at eight o'clock. Some of the boys will have to fix up my arm. We'll put a brace of some kind on it or otherwise I'll forget that it is supposed to be paralyzed, and I'd be swinging it around and giving the whole snap away. What in the world this countryman wants a cripple for is more than I can imagine, but there ought to be a cracking good story in it."

Norah Clevenger was at the Consolidated depot at eight o'clock, with her right arm in a surgeon's brace. Some girls would have felt a bit of trepidation at the prospect of meeting the stranger, but years of rather seamy work had hardened the woman's nature. She waited in the passenger room. The train rolled in and in a minute or two there came through the doorway a tall, well-built man, with crisp, curly hair, sun-browned cheeks and honest eyes. He was leading a little girl about five years old by the hand.

Norah Clevenger felt that it was the man she was to meet, though a moment before she could have sworn that her correspondent was some fool of a fellow with a cast in his eye, a painful limp and so ugly generally that his very appearance would give answer to the question why he had not sought a bride in the vicinity of Hoosiersville. The man looked about the station. His eyes fell on Norah, and then went quickly to her arm. He saw the surgeon's brace and walking forward raised his hat and said: "Miss Anderson, I believe. I am George Moore. This is my little girl Frances."

The little one held out both hands to Norah and lifted her face to be kissed. This writer of stories, with a touch of saffron in them felt something of a shock, but she bent over and kissed the child's red lips. "Let us sit down for a moment, Miss Anderson. I owe you an explanation. I see you are crippled. My wife, who died four years ago, was a cripple. I tell you frankly that I loved her, and the fact that she was dependent on me because of her crippled state made me learn the delight that there is in doing for others. I was a selfish man, but I learned unselfishness, and it made me happy. I don't know much of the world, and I feel that to advertise for a wife may not be considered right, but I say honestly that there was none near home whom I wished even could I have chosen."

Norah Clevenger felt uncomfortable. She hardly liked to admit it to herself. She knew that the man was fair and above board, and that she had been doing something that was unwomanly. She had done unwomanly things before in the interest of a story, but this thing cut. The little girl had slipped into her lap by this time, and was talking to her softly. Moore rose suddenly. "I forgot something," he said. "Stay with Miss Anderson a minute, Frances," and then he disappeared in the direction of the baggage room. In a minute he was back with a huge basket on his arm, and, raising the cover, he showed it to be full of black Hamburg grapes. There are for the Crippled Children's home," he said; "I send fruit in every week because of my memories. I thought I would bring the grapes myself this time. I raise them in my own house. I'll give them to an extra-man, and he can get them to the hospital, so that the tots can have them in the morning."

Norah Clevenger rose from her seat. "Mr. Moore," she said, "I have met you as you asked. I must go now. I'll write you tomorrow."

"No story in this for us, Mr. Rankin," she said to the city editor an hour later, "or if there is I won't write it." And Norah Clevenger left the office and went home. Next day she wrote a letter, and sent it to George Moore, Hoosiersville, Ind. Prior to writing it she had inquired at the Crippled Children's home, and found out all about the man, his kindness and his honesty, though she felt that she needed no character assurance save that given her by the memory of his face. In the letter she told him the whole story. "When I wrote you that I was a cripple," she said, "I thought I was lying, but I have found out since that I was a cripple of the worst kind, in short, my conscience was crippled, but it certainly is healed now, and it is active enough to smite me."

Norah Clevenger still wrote for the Blaze, but they had to turn to other reporters when they wanted an orange streak in a story. The months passed on, the boys saw many letters lying on Norah's desk before she came down in the morning, all bearing the Hoosiersville, Ind. postmark. They remembered Norah's "cripple" assignment and wondered. One day she treated them to black Hamburg grapes that were selling at four dollars a pound at Jung's.

"Where did you get them, Norah?" asked City Editor Rankin.

"They are samples of goods which I shortly shall offer for sale," she said. "I have been asked to take a life partnership in the business, and I shall soon become the junior member of the firm."—Chicago Record-Herald.

MINT IN THEIR COFFEE.

Mistake of a Society Leader Taken for the Real Thing by Ambitious Emulators.

That the advice, "Watch how others do and then do likewise," is not always good to social aspirants, was illustrated the other evening at a dinner given by a young matron in honor of a guest of acknowledged social standing, relates the Chicago Tribune.

When coffee was served, and with it the indispensable chocolate mints, the guest was seen to take one of the sweets and toy with it gracefully over her coffee cup. Instantly every woman at the table did likewise. Evidently some new wrinkle of fashion was about to be exhibited. Every eye was on the guest and on the mint drop. Determination to follow the leader and give no sign that they were not in the habit of doing this new trick every day was written on every face. The sudden calm caused the guest to look up, and as she did so she inadvertently dropped her mint into the tiny cup. To her surprise a series of clicks ran around the table as each of the rural ones followed her mistake.

Appreciating the situation, the guest hastily gulped down her coffee to hide her mirth.

Later in the evening she heard one woman remark to another:

"I don't care if it is swell, I don't like mint in my coffee."

"Oh, dear," replied the other, loftily, "it is really delicious. I never think of taking my demitasse without it."

THE COUNTRY NEGRO.

Some of the Advantages He Enjoys Which Are Denied to His City Brother.

The average city negro grows up in the shade. He is completely overshadowed by his overtowering environment. As one walks along the streets of our great cities and views the massive buildings and sky-seeking structures, he finds no status for the negro above the cellar floor. The city negro of education and culture is forced into menial employment because higher forms of occupation are preempted by the more favored class. There are a dozen competitors for every dollar in sight, and in the great majority of cases, the negro is handicapped by his color, says the Southern Workman.

The country negro, on the contrary, is on terms of equality with his environment. He is not confronted by suggestions of inequality at every turn. Nature is a mother who is equally kind and beneficent to all of her children. An acre of ground will yield as much for the black as for the white tiller. The markets are colorblind. No one inquires into the color of the producer of the best produce in the market, except as a matter of idle curiosity. No labor organization has yet placed a boycott upon negro farm labor. The farm offers for the negro the only really unhampered field which is open to him on an unlimited scale.

DOG WITH GOLD TOOTH.

Philadelphia Canine of the "Bull" Breed Has Remarkable Mouth Adornment.

A well-known Philadelphia pet stock dealer some years ago hit upon a very odd and effective way to identify a dog, says the Philadelphia Record. The owner of this dog called on him and said:

"Jack, my valuable bull, is running away all the time. So far he has been traced and found in each of his flights, but it has been a matter of difficulty, and I am afraid that some day he will be irretrievably lost because of the lack of some positive and striking mark of identification."

"You want," said the dealer, "a good identifying mark? Well, I'll tell you what to do. Go to a dentist and have a gold crown put on one of the dog's front teeth. The crown won't hurt the tooth; on the contrary, it will preserve it; and always it will be a mark whereby your dog will be readily known."

The other did as the dealer advised, and since then there have appeared from time to time advertisements in the newspapers that began:

"Lost—A bulldog with a gold front tooth."

Cradle of American Genius. Eight governors, three United States senators, three generals of the civil war, one of the world's greatest engineers, a distinguished painter and sculptor, two novelists who are read wherever the English language is known, a poet whose songs have thrilled millions of hearts, a rear admiral and a gallant commander whose heroic and tragic death is known to everyone, together with almost innumerable state legislators and a number of financial magnates, constitute Brookville's (Ind.) contribution to the genius of the world, writes Landon Knight, in National. Of the eight governors, James B. Ray was the first.

About the Pepper Plant. The pepper plant—piper, nigrum—which produces the white and black pepper of commerce, is a climbing vine-like shrub, found growing wild in the forests of Travancore and the Malabar coast of India. Pepper is entirely tropical in its requirements. The white pepper is the black pepper decorated by maceration and rubbing.

New X-Ray Machine. A nickel-in-the-slot X-ray machine has been invented. The observer places a coin in the slot, moves a lever, puts his hand, or whatever he wishes to examine, into a box without any sides, and looks down at it through a fluorescent screen which forms the top of the box.

FISH COME WHEN CALLED.

Curious Species Brought by a New York Naturalist to This Country from Asia.

Otto Eggeling, a naturalist of New York, has finally succeeded in importing from Asia the first specimens of the curious fish known as the anabes ever brought to this country, says the Times.

The special peculiarity of the anabes, which inhabits the streams of interior India, is that it travels for miles on land in search of water when the streams are dried up.

Lovers of aquariums have for years endeavored to secure specimens of this fish, but without success, as they always died in transit, especially when in the vicinity of the Suez canal, owing to the intense heat.

Mr. Eggeling conceived the idea of placing the fish in earthenware vessels, containing a sufficient quantity of water-soaked earth, and two months ago he corresponded with friends in India, who secured several fine specimens and shipped them. The fish arrived last week, and when the earthenware pots were opened, the earth therein was found perfectly dry and the fish were in a lifeless state. Several hours after being placed in water, however, they came to life, and are now as well as ever.

These fish are beautifully marked, and when the light strikes them at certain angles their whole bodies assume all the colors of the rainbow. They average about two and one-half inches in length, and, unlike other fish, breathe through the lungs instead of the gills, thus enabling them to live on land.

It is said that the anabes can be tamed as any domestic animal, and come when called to, eating food out of one's hand. These fish have what might be called "crawlers" on the lower part of their bodies, thus enabling them to travel over land.

MESSAGES IN MERCHANDISE.

Many Instances Are on Record, Among Them Being Some of a Tragical Nature.

In regard to the story which has been going the rounds of the English papers lately as to a Liverpool man finding a message written upon an egg by the packer, a widow in Manitoba, whom he ultimately married, the London Chronicle remarks that many true incidents of the same kind could be related. In 1899 a message was found in a barrel of apples that had come from New Zealand. In this message the packer of the fruit, a young woman, stated that her ancestors, whose names were given, came from Kent, and she asked the finder to ascertain if any of her name and family still remained in the country. As stated in the papers of the time, the finder was able to give her full particulars as to surviving relatives. But Mr. Tew, of Leeds, a member of a Yorkshire banking family, had at one time a collection of these "messages in merchandise," some of them being very tragical, and being a survival of the days when peaceful traders were caught by Algerian pirates and sold into captivity and slavery. One such message had been written in blood on a coarse canvas bag that had contained gum arabic; another appeared as a sort of tattooed stain on a large cork that had fastened up a vessel containing attar of roses.

SHARPENING OF SABERS.

The Secretary of War Announces That It Is Not a Violation of the Laws of War.

The question has come before the war department whether the sharpening of sabers is a violation of any law, or custom of war, or of the Geneva convention. The inquiry came from Capt. Le Roy Eltinge, Fifteenth cavalry, now at Siassi, P. I., says a Washington report.

That officer reports a well circulated opinion among officers that it is not permissible to grind sabers when fighting a civilized enemy. The judge advocate general of the army found nothing which brings the character of this inquiry within the exception of paragraph 847 of the army regulations, and the secretary of war announced that the sharpening of sabers is not a violation of the laws of war nor of any of the conventions which have been accepted by the United States, either expressly or by implication for the government of its military forces when engaged in actual military operations.

The Geneva convention and its modification relate to the care and neutralization of the sick and wounded in time of war.

EXHIBIT OF SCULPTURE.

Half Million Dollars Expended on Statuary Display.

BUILDINGS HANDSOMELY DECORATED.

Important Figures in History of Louisiana Purchase Territory and Allegorical Story of the Country Shown in Beautiful Statuary.

For the sculptural ornamentation of the World's fair grounds and buildings an appropriation of a half million dollars has been made. The total number of pieces represented by this outlay will be over a thousand. Mr. Karl Francis Theodore Bitter, Chief of Sculpture, has searched out every sculptor of note in the United States to be represented in the work. The general scheme of sculptural ornamentation was passed upon and approved by an advisory committee composed of the three foremost sculptors of this country, Augustus St. Gaudens, Daniel Chester French and J. Q. A. Ward. The scheme itself is a poetic conception embracing in its working out the history, local color and allegory of the Louisiana territory, dividing the figures and groups into four classes. The first class are the original owners of the soil, represented by the animals that roamed the prairies and forests of the West. Then the Indians, or second owners, are represented, after whom came the hardy race of discoverers, explorers, hunters, trappers and pioneers who wrested the soil from the red men. The fourth and last owners of the land were the more highly civilized men of France, Spain and the United States, the principal actors in its development. The jubilant character of the centennial celebration has also been recognized and a festive note has been struck in the decoration of the cascades and stairways with sportive groups of human and animal forms, nymphs, cupids, horses, dragons and other mythical forms being freely used. But the more serious and significant note prevails in the ornamentation of the approaches to the cascades with statues representing the men famous in the history of the West.

Necessarily Art hill has been chosen as a central point for sculptural effects. On the topmost height of this hill will stand the Art palace, immediately in front of it Festival hall. Much of the sculpture on the former will be permanent work in marble and bronze. The main entrance will be flanked with two pieces in marble representing "Sculpture," by French, and "Painting," by St. Gaudens. Further on in two niches will be statues of "Truth," by Grafty, and "Nature," by Philip Martiny. A large bronze composition representing "Inspiration," by Andrew O'Connor, will surmount them. Other figures representing various art periods as follows: "Classic," "Renaissance," "Oriental" and "Gothic" will ornament the building.

Festival hall, the exact center of the "picture," will be crowned with a large group representing Apollo and the Muses. The sculpture for the center cascade will be by H. A. McNeil. The fountain from which will issue the waters of this cascade will be known as "The Fountain of Liberty." Twelve colossal groups surround its waters springing from a niche surmounted by figures of Liberty, Truth and Justice, Liberty represented as standing with hands extended pointing to the two side cascades which symbolize the Atlantic and the Pacific. The sculpture of these side cascades will be done by Isidore Kenti and the torrents of the two great oceans will represent the sway of liberty extended by the Louisiana Purchase to all the domain from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The Colonnade of States will consist of 14 seated statues of the states and territories embraced in the purchase territory. These statues will each occupy an exedra of 100 feet and will be colossal in size. The exposition management hopes to induce the several states represented to have them eventually cast in enduring bronze.

At the end of the central lagoon facing Art hill, will stand the Louisiana Purchase monument. The monument will be a shaft 100 feet high surmounted by a figure of Peace standing on a globe supported by four figures representing the East, West, North and South. At the base of the monument there will be group compositions relating to historical episodes of the Louisiana territory.

At the end of the grand court and near the main entrance of the exposition, will be a monument typifying "The Apotheosis of St. Louis," by Charles H. Niehaus. On a massive architectural base is a heroic equestrian figure of Louis IX. of France, the patron saint of the city, attired in the armor of the Thirteenth century. In front of this figure are four youthful heralds holding aloft the crown and cross of the sainted king. At the foot of the equestrian statue, seated among proper accessories, is a figure typifying the city of St. Louis welcoming her guests.

THE New York World

Thrice-a-Week Edition.

Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World was a brilliant success in the beginning and has steadily grown ever since. Time is test of all things, and has set its seal of approval on the Thrice-a-Week World, which is widely circulated in every State and Territory of the Union, and wherever there are people who can read our mother tongue.

This paper for the coming winter and the year 1903, will make its news service, if possible, more extensive than ever. All events of importance, no matter where they happen, are reported accurately and promptly.

The subscriber for only one dollar a year, gets three papers every week and more general reading than most great dailies can furnish at five or six times the price.

The Thrice-a-Week World is absolutely fair in its political news. Partisan bias is never allowed to affect its news columns, and Democrat and Republican alike can obtain in its pages truthful accounts of all the great political campaigns.

In addition to all the news, the Thrice-a-Week World furnishes the best serial fiction, elaborate market report and other features of interest.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE BOURBON NEWS together one year for $2.75.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $6.00.

A NOTICE

The women of Central Kentucky have been led to expect much from Kaufman, Straus & Co. in the matter of Tailor-Made Dresses—and rightly.

We have taught our public to look for lavish variety in Fine, Ready-to-Wear Garments. This season, we, ourselves, are astonished at the assemblage presented. Perhaps we have been carried too far by our enthusiasm over the fine things we have found.

In order to introduce these goods speedily and effectively, we have decided to offer them below their actual value at the very beginning of this season, and thus get our patrons to judge for themselves of the superiority of these fine goods.

The Suits and Dresses we are showing represent the very newest and swellest designs; none of them in the house over ten days, yet they will be reduced to the following prices:

$37 50 and	$35 00 Suits will be Sold at	$30 00
32 50 and	30 00 Suits will be Sold at	25 00
27 50 and	25 00 Suits will be Sold at	20 00
22 50 and	20 00 Suits will be Sold at	17 50
18 00 and	17 50 Suits will be Sold at	15 00
16 50 and	15 00 Suits will be Sold at	13 50

The colors are Black, Navy, Royal, Brown and Mixtures. The materials are Cheviots, Cloths, Etamines, Mistrals and Veilings. Sizes from 32 to 40. Misses' sizes 14 and 16 years; small-sized ladies can also be fitted from these sizes.

When alterations are necessary, every garment will be made to fit in our own attractive department.

MR. AUGUSTUS E. WILSON, of Louisville, one of the most prominent and able Republicans in the State, has announced his candidacy for the nomination for Governor.

THE Georgetown Sentinel, Republican, suggests the name of Judge Louis L. Bristow, of Georgetown, for the nomination upon the Republican ticket for the office of Lieutenant Governor.

FRIENDS of John C. Wood at Mt. Sterling are sore over the action of Congressman Vincent Boreing, who made a strenuous fight for Siler and to whose influence they attribute Wood's defeat in the Republican convention in this city.

INSURANCE COMMISSIONER CHENAUT in his annual report to the State Auditor shows that thirty-four life companies and thirty-three miscellaneous insurance concerns did business in Kentucky in 1902. They issued during the year 176,403 policies had paid losses amounting to $3,312,688.48.

At the Republican district convention at Paris Thursday a speaker referred to "the grand and noble Republicans, Caleb Powers and Jim Howard, who are now suffering the penalties of Democratic misrule." His reference to these cowardly assassins was applauded, so a dispatch states. If the Republicans of Kentucky can't do any better than this they ought to get off the earth.—Maysville Bulletin.

THE assassination of J. B. Marcum is a heinous crime that calls for prompt and vigorous action on the part of the authorities. The dear Republican editors, however, in decency should keep their mouths shut, since they have impeded, retarded and thwarted, as far as possible, every attempt to discover and punish the assassins of William Goebel.—Cynthiana Democrat.

FISCAL COURTS of the following counties have made contributions to the Kentucky Exhibit Association fund for a proper representation of the State at St. Louis: Boyd, $300; Carroll, $200; Jefferson, $3,000; Jessamine, $200; Livingston, $100; Montgomery, $200.

The Mt. Sterling City Council made an appropriation of $100 in addition to the Montgomery County subscription. The Covington Business Men's Association has subscribed $500 toward the fund, and the Bowling Green Commercial Club has made a donation of $50.

Winning Ticket Named By Democratic Voters.

The election for Democratic State offices held Saturday passed off quietly. There was a very small vote polled throughout the state.

In Bourbon county, twenty precincts gives Beckham, 1,104; Thorne, 487; Renick, 619; Hager, 636; Chenault, 482; Bosworth, 893; Griffith, 148; Richardson, 36; Mitchell, 718; Carroll, 21; Hays, 102; Julian, 223; McChesney, 1,004; Watts, 158; Fuqua, 114; Watkins, 40; Arnold, 679; Sugg, 24; Vreeland, 329; Frazee, 283; Hedger, 425; Chinn, 459; Greene, 645.

The ticket elected is as follows:
For Governor—J. C. W. Beckham.
For Lieutenant Governor—W. P. Thorne.

For Auditor of State—S. W. Hager.
For Treasurer—H. M. Bosworth.
For Attorney General—In Doubt.
For Secretary of State—H. V. McChesney.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—J. H. Fuqua.

For Commissioner of Agriculture—Hubert Vreeland.

For Clerk of Court of Appeals—J. Morgan Chinn.

Unless all signs fail the above named gentlemen are the nominees of the Democratic party for the state offices elected at the primary, Saturday, with the race for Attorney General in doubt.

J. Willard Mitchell states that he has a majority of more than a thousand and when some of his strongest counties are heard from he will be a winner by more than 2,000 majority.

Hays, candidate for the same office, says the official count will show him the nominee for the office. Mr. Julian admits that he has lost out.

John B. Chenault won't concede anything. It is reported that a contest will be made in Louisville. Mr. Chenault left for that place yesterday.

—At Louisville, yesterday, Wainamoni did not show, and Talpa ran second.

—Dan Mitchell, of Carlisle, bought of J. B. Day, of Fleming, a sorrel gelding, for $425.

—Sanford Carpenter, of Millersburg, bought of Doug. Thomas, a nice trotting-bred mare, at a good price.

—Carpenter Bros. shipped 46 head of extra fine saddle horses to Atlanta, Ga., where they will make a sale tomorrow.

—A little while ago, we had too much rain, but now the farmers would not object to a good healthy shower. It would help things wonderfully.

—J. H. Baughman has sold to the Kentucky Supply Co., at Danville, seven Percheron horses at $340 to $400 a pair.—Interior-Journal.

—Bad News, which failed to show in the Derby, made a good field look cheap in the third race at a mile, for three-year-olds, at Louisville, Saturday. Frank Van Meter's American Derby candidate, Incubator, which has been warmly touted, was made an even-money favorite, while Bad News was held at 8 to 5. Lendin was quoted at 8 to 1, with Schorr's Gold Bell and Handspinner the outsiders. The race was merely a good exercise gallop for Bad News, which had all the speed, and, going to the front, drew farther away from his company the farther he went, and without being extended at any part of the route, won pulled up by four open lengths in 1:41½.

Let everyone join in making the fair a big success. Remember, large numbers of free attractions, including fireworks daily, afternoon and evening, and the best Midway ever seen in Paris.

Following letter in regard to the Dixie Carnival Company explains itself:

FRANKLIN, KY., May 5, 1903.
W. S. O'BRIEN, Sec'y.,
Paris, Ky.,

DEAR SIR:—We had the Dana Thompson Carnival Company with us last week and they gave us as clean a show as I have ever seen, and I have never met a better behaved aggregation.

Our dealings with all of them were pleasant and I can say that I have never had dealings with any one that were pleasanter than with Dana Thompson. You can take your ladies to any show that they had here, and there is nothing that would shock the finest sensibilities.

Of course there is always a lot of fakirs that follows these shows that you will have to look out for in your own way.

Respectfully,
C. F. SAUNDERS,
Sec'y Com.

CURTIS JETT, charged with the murder of James B. Marcan, was captured Sunday morning shortly after three o'clock at his mother's home in Madison county, near the Kentucky river, by Sheriff Woodson McChord, Deputy Sheriff J. T. Stokely and a posse of six men, of Clark county, and now occupies a cell in the Clark county jail.

Jett made no attempt to resist arrest, although he had a big gun under his pillow and inside the house had every advantage of the officers. Sheriff McChord and Deputy Sheriff Stokely approached the house, leaving the rest of the party stationed in places of advantage in the yard. After a little delay they secured admission to the house and found Jett in bed. He was in bed and when informed of the mission of the officers, quietly submitted.

Capt. John A. Miller Dead.

Capt. John A. Miller, formerly of Millersburg, and for the past twenty years a resident of Atlanta, Ga., died suddenly from a ruptured blood vessel, yesterday morning, leaving a wife, nee Miss Mollie Hall, of Maysville, one son and three daughters.

He was aged about 55 years. At the age of 15 he enlisted in Company C, Ninth Kentucky Cavalry (Breckinridge) and remained until the surrender. He was a model soldier and a general favorite with all his comrades. Returning home, he embarked in the trading of mules in the Southern markets and at the time of his death was president of the "John A. Miller Feed and Sale Stables," the finest and largest stables (3,000 capacity) in the South.

Mr. Miller was probably better known among live stock men than any other man in the country, and his word was as good as his bond.

He was in Paris about a month ago, having come up to attend the burial of his sister-in-law, the wife of Dr. W. M. Miller, of Millersburg. Since his return, home, he has lost by death his only grand-child, a little girl of 15 months, to whom he was greatly attached.

The remains will be interred in Atlanta, on Thursday. His son, Hall Miller, and brother, Raymond, are in Colorado, but will go to Atlanta to attend the funeral.

Dr. W. M. Miller, of Millersburg, leaves this morning for that place. The remainder of the family, his mother, Mrs. Rachel Miller, his brothers, Henry, Carlton, Lee, and sisters, Miss Mary and Mrs. R. Milam are now in Atlanta.

TONSorial.—When you want a clean shave, a good hair cut or a bath, drop in and see Carl Crawford. He has five chairs in his shop and you are not compelled to wait your turn very long. His assistants are polite and courteous and you will be treated right.

A FEW FACTS!

Longfellow could take a worthless sheet of paper, write a poem on it and make it worth $5,000.

J. P. Morgan can write a few words on a piece of paper and make it worth $1,000,000.

A mechanic can take a pound of steel and work it into watch springs, and make it worth $800.

We can write a check for $1,000,000 and it would not be worth a dime.

Your wife can buy a coat worth $10 but prefers one that cost $50.

SIG Apple and Corn.

At the recent corn carnival at Peoria, Mo., there were on exhibition an apple of the pipplin variety and an ear of ordinary yellow corn, the former weighing six pounds and about the size of an average watermelon, while the latter measured 14 inches in length, contained 947 grains by actual count, was two inches in diameter, six inches in circumference, and was picked from its stalk nine feet from the ground.

Russian Military Service.

Every year nearly 1,000,000 Russians become liable for service, but of these only 270,000 enter the active army, the remainder being passed direct into the militia for 22 years.

Honeymoon and Jail.

The jailkeeper at Fort Scott was astonished the other night when a good-looking young couple asked for permission to stay in one of the cells till morning. It was explained that they had just been married over in Missouri and were going into southern Kansas, where the man had work. They ran out of money and had no place to sleep. The Monitor says the bride was good looking and cheerful and seemed to regard the matter as something of a joke. But think of honeymoon commenced in jail.

Hens Laying for Church.

Western women are certainly ingenious as well as enterprising. The Kansas City Journal says: "The women members have hit upon a novel plan to raise money for the support of a rural church in southern Missouri. They devote to this purpose all the eggs their hens lay on Sunday. There is, of course, no way to prevent the hens from working seven days a week if they want to, but these women don't intend any longer to be participants in appropriating to their use eggs laid in desecration of the Sabbath."

THE SLOWLY RECEDING MOON.

Lunar Body May Have Been Born of Our Earth Millions of Years Ago.

Looking back through the mists of time we see the moon ever drawing nearer and nearer to the earth. Our satellite now revolves at a distance of 240,000 miles, but there was a time when that distance was no more than 200,000 miles. There was a time, millions of years ago, no doubt, when the moon was but 100,000 miles away; and as we look further and further back we see the moon ever drawing closer and closer to the earth, until at last we discern the critical period in earth-moon history when our globe was spinning round in a period of about five or six hours, writes Sir Robert Ball, in Booklovers' Magazine. The moon, instead of revolving where we now find it, was then actually close to the earth; earlier still it was, in fact, touching our globe, and the moon and the earth were revolving each around the other, like a football and a tennis ball actually fastened together.

It is impossible to resist taking one step further. We know that the earth was, at that early period, a soft molten mass of matter, spinning round rapidly. The speed seems to have been so great that a rupture took place, a portion of the molten matter broke away from the parent globe, and the fragments coalesced into a small globe. That the moon was thus born of our earth uncounted millions of years ago is the lesson which mathematics declares it learns from the murmur of the tides.

For every 10,000 inhabitants of Germany, 160 acres of potatoes are planted, as against 112 acres in Austria, 98 acres in France, 35 acres in the United States and 31 acres in Great Britain and Ireland.

DECALOGUE OF DON'TS.

Which May Be Followed with Beneficial Results by Both Sexes.

Don't cultivate the anxious look. Don't forget that your mirror is your best friend.

Don't neglect the daily bath if you want a radiant complexion.

Don't wear a high collar. It ruins the line and curve of the neck and hardens the flesh.

Don't talk when you are hoarse. Your voice may be permanently lost or difficulties of the throat may be produced.

Don't ride in an open carriage or near the open window of a car after playing golf or exercising in any way.

Don't exercise one part of the body too much and another part not at all. Let the development be symmetrical.

Don't exercise an instant after you feel exhausted.

Don't be afraid of sunshine and fresh air. They give bloom and color.

Don't become so burdened with the accumulation of knowledge that you cannot spare time to laugh.

Our Internal Commerce.

In view of the establishment of the department of commerce and labor it may be interesting to note that the internal commerce of the United States last year has been estimated by the government statistician at $20,000,000,000. Fifty years ago it was only $2,000,000,000. The manufactures of the United States are nearly double those of Great Britain and Ireland, and about equal to those of France, Germany and Russia combined.

Conscripts Are Outlawed.

Twenty-seven thousand and forty-seven hundred conscripts from Alsace-Lorraine have failed to join the colors and have been declared outlaws. All their property reverts to the crown.

THE TALISMAN.

"Of course, its intrinsic value is very slight," I said, as Theodora stood holding the ring in her right hand.

"Is that why you are offering it to me?" she demanded, glancing up brightly.

"Because," I explained, "it is supposed to bring the owner all manner of luck."

"Then," cried Theodora, "it is a kind of charm!"

"A talisman!"

"What is it supposed to do?"

"Oh, well, the idea used to be that it received an influence from the planets—" "I wonder which planet?" asked Theodora.

"The stone is green," I answered, "and green was the color of Venus, you know. Anyhow, it is supposed to protect your house from visitations of evil spirits—" "Your house," she remonstrated.

"It is the same thing," I insisted, and Theodora's face grew rosier red.

"Oughtn't a talisman to have some mysterious writing on it?" she asked.

"Every occult condition is fulfilled," I assured her, and she carried the ring to the window. But after an endeavor to read the words which were minutely engraved on the inner face of the thin gold band, she gave it up with a sigh. Taking the ring from Theodora's hand, I held it in a more favorable position.

"To give and keep!" she read, then turned her head with an inquiring expression: "Is that right?" she asked.

"Quite right," I answered, and I shivered as her hair brushed my cheek.

"Do you feel cold?" she asked, looking at the fire.

"Not in the least."

"I will ring for Edwards to put some more coal on," she suggested, going toward the bell.

"You haven't made out all the words yet," I insisted, and after a momentary hesitation she returned to my side.

"It is extremely ridiculous," she exclaimed, "because how can you give a thing and yet—"

"It must be done in order to bring out the full virtue of the charm."

"But if you give it away—"

"Precisely what I am endeavoring to do!" "Then how can you keep it?" Theodora demanded.

"Suppose you try to read the remaining line," I said, but she read it cautiously to herself before repeating it aloud. I saw her lips moving.

"To give and keep, Nor lose nor weep," she read.

"It is supposed," I explained, "to be a translation of an old French couplet, and you perceive that the last line contains the moral."

"And the first an impossible condition!" "I assure you it is perfectly simple," I insisted.

"In the Greek Kalends," said Theodora, with a smile.

"Much sooner, I hope."

"When?" she asked, turning away her face.

"If it is left to me, I should say a month at the latest."

Turning to face me again, she held out the ring at arm's length.

"I shall refuse to have anything to do with it," she cried.

"Why?" I asked.

"Oh! I detest things I can't understand."

"You ought to try to have more faith," I urged.

"In what?" asked Theodora.

"In me, of course. I promise, if you take it, the ring shall bring good fortune."

"I was thinking of you," she murmured, "at the moment."

"Then the spell begins to work!" I exclaimed. "What better luck could it bring than to make you think of me?"

"To me or to you?" she demanded.

"To both; at present it is neither yours nor mine."

"It looks rather ancient," she remarked.

"You see, it has been a family relic for generations," I explained.

"Then it has always been kept!"

"Evidently."

"And consequently it has never been given away!"

"At regular intervals," I insisted.

"Well," she faltered, "I—I don't understand." But I fancied she did.

"If you study the words carefully," I began, when she interrupted me with a solemn expression.

"Besides," she cried, "even if the condition could be fulfilled—"

"It could," I answered.

"Even then," she continued, "haven't any of its owners either lost or—" "They have never lost the talisman."

"Ah!" said Theodora, "it must be a very wonderful thing if it always keeps away tears."

"You mustn't judge by its present effect," I urged, and she became suddenly indignant.

"What do you mean?" she demanded.

"I fancied there were tears in your eyes—"

"Why should there be?"

"Why?" I whispered, drawing closer.

"If only the talisman might do as you say," she murmured.

"My father gave it to my mother," I explained.

"Then he didn't keep it!"

"The whole includes the part, you understand. He gave her the ring; she gave him back herself."

"And—and yet he lost her," murmured Theodora.

"Yes, he lost her."

"And I suppose, for all their love, there were tears now and then," she suggested.

"Ah, well—"

"So that your talisman was of very little effect," said Theodora.

"Perhaps," I urged, "the translation was not literal; but anyhow, you need not be afraid to accept it."

"It isn't that I am afraid," she exclaimed; but still she held out her right hand once more, and the ring was in her fingers.

"You are not going to give it back to me," I expostulated.

"Why, yes," she returned, and I felt compelled to take it in my hand. For a few moments I stood gazing at it, a little foolishly perhaps, then I looked into her face.

"The tears should be as few as I could make them, Theo," I said.

"O, I know, I know," she faltered.

"Don't you think you can change your mind?" I urged, and she met my eyes with an expression half perplexed, half indignant. In her own there were still traces of tears; some sensitive chord had, perhaps, been touched, of which I had no perception.

"Change my mind!" she cried.

"Let me give and keep—"

"I thought you would like to put it on," said Theodora, and as I took her left hand and pushed the ring over her third finger, it seemed that the talisman began to take effect at once, for her tears dried like April rain, and no sunshine was ever brighter than her smile. But Theodora insists that her talisman is something different altogether.—Detroit Free Press.

MOVING BY INSTALLMENT.

Strange Way of Changing Quarters
Revealed by a New York
Expressman.

He looked like a truthful man, yet nobody would believe him when he said he did not know where the trunks were going, relates the New York Times.

"It is very strange that you don't know," said the landlady. "You are the expressman. If you don't know, who does?"

"The fellow that will finish the hauling, probably," he returned, serenely.

"Aren't you going to do the whole job?" she asked.

"No, only half of it. I will take the things to our office and somebody else will take them the rest of the way. The boss at the desk will know the address. I don't know it. The moving is done on the installment plan to keep you folks here from finding out where the other people went. They were afraid to trust me with the number for fear you might worm it out of me, so they told it to nobody but the manager. Lots of people who move often make the trip in sections like that. Half the time when I take a trunk away from a boarding-house I don't know where it will wind up. That is generally done when there has been a row and the folks who leave don't want to be followed. Been a little trouble here, I imagine," he added, tentatively.

"Yes," sighed the landlady, "a little."

OVER A MOUNTAIN RANGE.

Aerial Tramway for the Transportation of Tea in the Island of Ceylon.

One of the most interesting aerial rope ways has recently been constructed upon the island of Ceylon. British India, for the transportation of tea, this up-to-date system dispensing with the services of hundreds of men and beasts which were formerly maintained and employed in carrying the tea over the miles of mountainous country. The tramway, which runs in almost a direct line, says the Philadelphia Record, is three miles long; the road which was followed by the flesh and blood carriers was a much greater distance.

This three miles of tramway passes over several ridges, one of which has a considerable elevation. The tea leaves, in bags, are placed in the great carriers, which are in the form of a hanging cage, as the latter pass the driving terminal, by wire-rope transmissions from a turbine three-quarters of a mile distant. The labor required to work the entire line need not exceed six men.

The tramway has been in use for four months and has given the most satisfactory service. The delivery of the tea is performed quite as reliably as heretofore and is done in much less time and much more cheaply.

MUST SIT UPON RUGS.

If We Would Avoid the Danger That Is Said to Lurk in High-Backed Chairs.

A contemporary which is devoted to the discussion of hygienic subjects makes a somewhat alarming suggestion. It maintains that high straight-backed chairs are responsible for a great many of the ills to which woman are prone.

Neuralgia, backache, headaches, depression, and so on may be directly traced to troubles engendered internally by the postures we are compelled to continually assume on these chairs.

The suggestion is put forth, therefore, that we should lie about on soft rugs on the floor, adapting these, as fancy dictated, to our own ideas of comfort.

This eastern seraglio kind of arrangement would give us our much-needed rest, as well as suppleness of form, we are assured, but how would it fit in with our fashions, our mode of entertaining, and our general household arrangements?

The spectacle of the average matron flopping about with a number of smartly-attired guests on the drawing room floor does not present itself to the mind's eye in other than a grotesquely comical form.

DIDN'T KNOW KING EDWARD.

Shopkeepers in Paris Would Not Accept English Coin Bearing His Face.

A correspondent of the London Express in Paris describes his experiences in trying to change a sovereign with the king's head on it for French money. The first place was at a stall of a leading Paris bookseller.

"It is not good," said the woman behind the counter.

"Yes, it is," was the reply. "It is an English sovereign and is worth 25 francs."

"Ah, no; it is a medal."

"No, no; good English money."

"But I have not seen one like it, I am afraid."

"Never mind whether you have seen one like it. It is the head of Edward, the new king, and the gold is good."

"No, no. I want to see the queen's head, and then I will take it."

Finally the woman said she would give 20 francs for it. Four other people who were tried argued in a similar manner, and all were afraid to take the risk. The sovereign was eventually changed at a restaurant.

Americans Getting Contracts.

The Birmingham Post calls the attention of British manufacturers to the fact that contracts involving the sum of $65,000,000 have been obtained by American interests during the last few weeks for the construction of electric traction systems in England, Russia and Holland.

A TALK ABOUT ONIONS.

Profit of the Crop Depends Upon Sound Seed and Rapid Operations in Harvesting.

If we have had the right seed, a good season, and if our crop was sown just right for thickness there should be but few scallions and the whole crop should ripen at the same time. About September 1 it should be ready for the harvest. By all means leave them until you can pull the tops off with the fingers without much effort. The tools necessary for the harvest in the old way are the hands only. The tools used by me are a wheel hoe with a circular cutter, a fine toothed wooden rake, plenty of crates, two strong men and for a plot of one acre about ten boys.

CRATE FOR HANDLING ONIONS.

With these appliances and help I should expect to harvest in one day a crop of from 700 to 1,000 bushels.

My crates are made from one-half inch lumber, of these dimensions: 18 inches long, 18 inches high and 12 inches through, inside measurements. They are made thus: the ends which are two strips 2 1/2 inches wide are laid 12 inches apart on iron plates. Take cross strips 12 inches long and any width handy from 1 1/2 to 4 inches, have nails just long enough to go through and clinch well, and nail your strips on, leaving a space between each strip of one inch, except the top space which make 1 1/2 inches, for here is where you will grip the crate in handling. Nail well.

Nail on for side and bottom pieces any narrow width you choose, leaving the same spaces on sides as recommended for the ends. The bottom spaces should be about three-fourths of an inch. This completes your crate, as shown in the cut, and if it has been properly put together and well nailed you will have a firm and inflexible crate which will last for years and will stand a lot of banging. Mine have been in use for ten years and are in fairly good condition yet. They have been lent to my customers and have had lots of hard usage.

These crates are very useful not only in the onion harvest, but the handiest article you ever saw for harvesting potatoes, apples, root crops of all kinds, cabbage, and in fact useful at all times and all seasons. They hold exactly 1 1/2 bushels even full. They weigh empty from seven to ten pounds; when full of onions, potatoes or apples from 85 to 100 pounds. Three of them put into a common market wagon endwise just fit the body.—John H. George in Orange Judd Farmer.

PLOW USED IN CHINA.

It is a Primitive Implement and Has Probably Been in Use Hundreds of Years.

China is decidedly behind the times so far as agricultural implements are concerned, as shown in the kind of plow which is generally used in that country. The only iron in this plow is a point, which turns down to enter the earth.

Blacksmiths with wheelbarrows loaded with tools and iron go frequently among the interior villages and spend much of their time making new plows and repairing old ones. In this way farmers who have any old iron get it shaped into plow points for a small sum.

TYPICAL CHINESE PLOW.

Referring to this primitive plow, Mr. Henry B. Miller, United States consul at Niu-chwang, says that he considers China an excellent field for American agricultural implements. Any American plow, however, which is introduced, he says, "must be cheap, as cheap as it is possible to make it and so cheap that it would be used in the United States."

The only battle ever fought on what is now Oklahoma soil took place on the Washita river near the Antelope hills. Here in 1868 Gen. Custer, with 900 cavalry, engaged in a deadly combat with Black Kettle, a Cheyenne chief, with an unknown number of warriors. Custer lost 19 soldiers and one officer, but won the fight, killing Black Kettle with 103 braves and taking 53 prisoners.

PEANUT-EATERS IN CARS.

A Public Nuisance That Most People Would Like to See Put Down and Out.

"If I could have my way about it," said a sensitive citizen, according to the New York Sun, "I would have a law passed forbidding the eating of peanuts in elevated or surface cars, and requiring the guards or conductors to eject from the cars any person so offending."

"Men, strange as it may seem, not children, are the chief offenders in this direction. You may see grown men sitting in a car, and regardless of their fellow passengers, calmly eating peanuts and dropping the shells on the floor."

"To many persons the odor of peanuts within a confined space, as in a railroad car, is unpleasant, as the sight of the litter of shells on the floor must be to all. But the men peanut eaters go right on eating, and so disposing of the shells. Why, I have seen a district messenger boy eating peanuts in a car do better than they in one way anyhow. This boy put his empty shells back into the paper bag from which he had emptied the peanuts into his pocket."

"I have seen men eat apples in an elevated car and throw the core under the seat. I have seen a man eat an orange in an elevated car and not even take the trouble to do that with the orange peel, but just lay that down on the vacant seat beside him. But such men as those I regard as fine gentlemen as compared with the grown man who eats peanuts in an elevated car and drops the shells on the floor. Him I regard as—"

"Well, the peanut eater I would have firmly, even if gently, put off the car."

WHITE WATER IN THE OCEAN.

Singular Phenomenon Witnessed at Rare Intervals in the Tropical Regions.

Of the many sights witnessed in the oceans of the globe, one of the most curious and most weird is that described by sailors as "the milky sea," ships being surrounded for several hours by water that appears to be a snowy whiteness. Compiled from experiences recorded during the last 70 years, an interesting account of the phenomenon is given on the North Atlantic and Mediterranean Pilot Chart. The spectacle is restricted to the darkness of night and rare occasions, and, while it is limited mainly to the warmer waters of the tropical belt, it appears to be more common in the Indian ocean than in the Atlantic and Pacific. From the white water the light is so strong that ordinary newspaper print can be read on board ship, but the scene all around is of an awe-inspiring description. The horizon is blotted out, sea and sky seem to become one in a sort of universal luminous fog, which, like a London fog, robs the observer of the sense of distance and direction, the deck being lit up with a ghastly, shadowless light. Last June off the west coast of South America a bucket of the white water emptied back into the sea resembled molten lead. This curious sight has interested scientific investigators, Darwin among them; but while it is, no doubt, related to the many phosphorescent displays common at sea, there is no difficult explanation forthcoming of this particular manifestation or of the singular atmospheric effects resulting from it.

FIRST BOOK OF LAWS.

Statutes Drawn Up by King of Babylon Five Centuries Before Laws of Moses.

The well-known assyriologist, Dr. Hugo Winckler, says the London Express, has published an account of the legislation promulgated by King Amraphel of Babylon, which, so far as is known at present, was the first book of laws ever given to the world. King Amraphel lived 2,350 years B. C., and is mentioned in the bible as a contemporary of Abraham, so that his statutes were drawn up fully five centuries before the laws of Moses. They number 282, and contain the following:

"If a woman who sells beverages gives bad value for the money paid her, she shall be thrown into water."

"If a wife be a spendthrift, or if she otherwise neglects her duties, her husband may put her away without compensation; but if a man put away his wife for no other reason than that she has no children, he shall return her whole dowry."

"If a betrothal be rescinded, the man shall pay the woman compensation."

"A widow with grown-up children may not marry again without permission from a judge."

Municipal Ownership in England.
A comprehensive return of the financial workings of the "public utilities" undertakings in British towns and cities has just been given to the public through a government board. It covers the four years ended March, 1902. The principal undertakings carried on by 299 corporations were: Markets, 223; waterworks, 193; cemeteries, 143; baths, 138; electricity, 102; gasworks, 97; tramways, 45; harbors, 43. The aggregate net profits were $23,417,522.

Size of Families.

William E. Curtis contributes to the "race suicide" question some real figures. Consulting the census statistics, Mr. Curtis finds that the average number of persons in a family has fallen from 5.6 in 1850 to 4.7 in 1900. The decline has been gradual but steady. In 1850 the average number in a family was 5.6; in 1860, 5.3; in 1870, 5.1; in 1880, 5; in 1890, 4.9; in 1900, 4.7.

PUBLIC SALE

Valuable Real Estate, Near Maysville, Ky., on Liberal Terms to the Purchasers.

The undersigned, DANIEL MORGAN, will offer at auction on the premises,

348 ACRES of the most valuable Tobacco Farming Land in Mason County, Kentucky, on Saturday, May 16, 1903,

at 1 o'clock, (standard time.)

Two hundred and ninety-eight and one-half acres is the property of the undersigned, and forty-nine and one-half acres is the property of Miss Mattie Morgan.

This fine tract of land has good frame dwelling house of six rooms, with a roomy frame building in same lot containing four large rooms. At the residence are two cisterns and a well, carriage and coal houses, cattle barn and cattle shed and large tobacco barn. There are also on the premises two tenant houses, with tobacco barns and stables.

This desirable land is on Washington Murphysville macadamized free turnpike, six miles from Maysville and two miles from Washington.

No part of this land, with the exception of seventeen acres, has been plowed for five years, and is all in except thirty seven acres of virgin soil in the woodland, which was originally walnut timber.

BLUE GRASS AND CLOVER

The real estate will be offered first in tracts, as designated by purchasers, and afterward as a whole. Possession of premises will be given June 1.

TERMS OF SALE:—One-fourth cash, balance in three equal annual payments, six per cent. interest; payable annually, secured by mortgage on real estate sold.

All inquiries in regard to the premises, as to tracts or to the terms and conditions of sale, will be promptly answered by the undersigned.

DANIEL MORGAN,
Hillsboro, Ohio.

MADE A MILLION

On An Investment of Twenty-Five Cents.

Large fortunes are oftentimes made from small amounts judiciously invested, but it is seldom that an opportunity occurs to make a million dollars from an investment of 25 cents. Good health is far more valuable than money. In 1902, 8,756,000 persons used Dr. Burkhardt's Vegetable Compound. Eighty per cent of whom were restored to health, no one of whom would be willing to return to their former condition for a million in gold. If you are sick, suffering from any disease of the Blood, Liver or Kidneys, Rheumatism, Nervousness or Constipation this great remedy will cure you. 25 cents. All Druggists.

JOAQUIN MILLER, known on two continents as the "Poet of the Sierras," died suddenly at his home, in Oakland, Cal.

TICKETS of admission to the hanging of Wm. McCarty, who is to pay the penalty of his crime on the gallows at Lexington, Friday, have been issued. McCarty has asked the jailer to allow no reporters to see him, as he would not talk.

The defeat of Charley Gray for Railroad Commissioner at the Republican convention, which nominated Siler here Thursday midnight, resulted in making the Bracken county man a most formidable candidate for Secretary of State before the coming Republican convention. The selection of Siler was a victory for Congressman Boreing over the Covington Collector, and the fight being between these two, Gray was never given the opportunity to show his real strength, which was large, but failed to materialize through lack of friends on the floor of the convention hall whom he expected to be there. Before the delegations left for their homes prominent leaders from all sections expressed themselves for Gray for State Secretaryship.
